presents: Robyn Ellenbogen

Robyn Ellenbogen works in multi-media; painting, drawing, digital printmaking, sculpture and installation. Robyn collaborates on community based art projects in Long Branch and teaches a diverse group of children and adults with special needs throughout N.J. She is an artist in residence at St. Joseph's Children's Hospital in Paterson and is the Art Editor for Zen Monster, a journal of poetry, politics and non-fiction. Robyn received a B.F.A. from the School of Visual Arts and an M.F.A. from Hunter College. During her formative years as an artist in N.Y.C. she worked as a studio assistant to Louise Bourgeois. Robyn's work is rooted in phenomenology and Zen meditation. Her art explores the “unsayable, unknowable” attributes of human experience.

Her website is www.robynellenbogen.com and she invites you to view her work in greater depth.
