Emil Silberman

New City, New York

Born in Riga, Latvia (former USSR) in 1960. Lived in Israel and Dominican Republic.

Member of the National Sculpture Society (2000).

Personal Statement:

"Sculpture is my form of communication, which enables me to express my deepest emotions. I am fascinated with the ability to condense my feelings into a single sculptural form, just to find its statement to be stronger than words.

There were many factors that shaped my artistic development. Having been largely self taught, I was left free to explore new ways of working with plaster and other materials and that became an advantage in arriving at my own technique. Several immigrations in my early life have exposed me to various cultures and artistic trends, which I have richly absorbed.

Lastly it was by turns of fate that I eventually became an Emergency Room physician, as well as an artist. Much of my inspiration and visions in art come from my work, with its never ending human drama... "
